March 22: Space Clearing

Learn to clear the spaces you inhabit.

The energy of your surroundings affects you on many levels. The thoughts and feelings of former owners of your home and your own experience in the space can be held there as an emotional residue, to deeply affect your personal environment.

When there is a clear, vibrant energy flowing through your home, you feel better, life goes more smoothly, clutter doesn't tend to accumulate, and you feel nourished and supported by your space.

Learn to explore the energy of your space, and discover anything that may be negatively affecting your experience there. Then you can clear the space with simple methods that transform your environment through the resonance of love.

You can learn to clear the energy of your environment using simple yet powerful techniques that create balance and allow you to live in alignment with your own natural flow and joy.

- Release the energetic residue of previous occupants or stress held from your own past experiences and emotions.
- Discover any power spots in your space that are especially positive for you.
- Learn how shifting the energy can help your clutter disappear.
- Support greater health and improved vitality.
- More easily sell, move from an old home, or find a new one.
- Finally feel 'at home', a sense of belonging and joy in your space.
- Create new possibilities for change and growth.

This pure, elegant work is refined to its essence - the power of the compassionate heart.
